"And it's time to say our few words because tomorrow the soul sets sail."

• Seferis

In the fall of 1988, the Yearbook Staff chose this quote as the theme and likewise the goal of this year's Murmurmontis. Words provide the basis for relationships, which are a vital part of college life, and while the value of words is universal, that value seems especially important at a smaller school like Wesleyan. While for some life at Wesleyan offers a family, for all it provides a community molded by the words of the individuals.

This year the communication among those at Wesleyan helped facilitate several changes. As enrollment increased, the dorms, classrooms, SCOW, and cafeteria seemed more alive than ever before, and this brought even more opportunities for interaction. Students, faculty, and administration joined forces to make the campus safer and more beautiful.

Communication also made our time here more worthwhile. For while we are here to learn and to build a foundation for the future, our knowledge is only increased by our relationships and the words exchanged between us. These words of students and faculty, and the words of others which they found noteworthy have been carefully recorded in this edition of the Murmurmontis with the hope that the memory of Wesleyan may be more easily recalled in the future — long after "the soul sets sail."

Freshman Orientation

The summer of '88 seemed to pass by so quickly to me, a recent high school graduate. I think it was because I was looking forward to attending college, the place that meant freedom from the hassles of home, but at the same time meant anxiety over how well I would fit in with the crowd. To tell you the truth, I wasn't really looking forward to orientation, but when I received the information about it, and saw all of the things that were planned for the students, I felt a little more comfortable.

The primary purpose of freshman orientation is to familiarize college freshmen and transfer students with the various college buildings and policies. Orientation also gives new students a chance to meet their peers, who share the same anxieties and dreams. The parents get to experience orientation along with the students. In my opinion, this is one of the many good things about orientation. Parents get just as nervous about college as their children; they often wonder if the right choice has been made. This year at Wesleyan some orientation programs were also provided for the parents, to give them some answers to their question.

When I arrived on campus (in a car packed to the roof with boxes) I was greeted by several Student Orientation Leaders who were willing to help me carry my things to my room. I also met the resident assistant for my floor who showed me to my room and gave me my key. I got settled in, met my roommate, and signed the room contract. The bookstore was open that afternoon, and many students went and bought that very popular Wesleyan shirt to prove they were now official students. That afternoon in the gym I picked up my freshman folder, which was complete with student handbook, pen, coupons, key ring, bumper sticker and leaflet. That night Convocation was held in the chapel, where we first heard the Wesleyan alma mater, and got presented as a class to the president of the college.

The next day a lot of activities were in store for us. Chapel service was held in the morning, followed by our first CORE group meeting. I thought my CORE group experience was the best part of orientation. Each CORE group was headed by a faculty advisor and two student leaders. The parents were also divided into groups, to ask questions about the college. In my group I met some of my best friends on campus, and got to know a professor very well.

A picnic was held for the new students and parents on Jenkins lawn after the CORE groups met. After the picnic ended, my parents left. I have to admit, I was kind of sad, but by this time I had met so many friends that I knew I would be taken good care of. I think my parents knew it also.

That evening each CORE group had dessert at the home of its CORE advisor. This not only gave us a chance to get off of campus, but a chance to get to know our new friends better, because we were "away from the crowd," so to speak.

An electric video dance was held that night in the social hall. A lot of people attended, and it became a true "social function" with a huge video screen and the latest music to dance to.

The next morning, all of the students got up early to take a writing evaluation, and that night yet another program was planned for us. The faculty ran a casino night. There were many tables, each hosting a different casino game such as poker, blackjack, and roulette. Each student got a certain amount of play money when he walked in the door, and the person with the most money at the end of the night received a prize.

The schedule for Tuesday allowed us to sleep in late. The afternoon activities included an orientation of that class that we all had to go through, the College Survival Course. The aim of the College Survival Course was to help us adjust better to college life by teaching us about good study habits and health, among other things.

Later that afternoon, the CORE Olympics was held. The games were really fun, because the CORE groups competed against each other in events that included an egg toss, a baby bottle contest, a cracker chew-and-whistle contest, and an orange pass under-the-neck contest. The two winning teams struggled against one another in the old favorite, tug-of-war. The day ended with the movie showing of Good Morning Vietnam.

The Orientation Coordinator, Alice Leigh, thought this year's orientation was a success, and a very positive experience for everyone. She went on to say that the evaluations the freshmen filled out for orientation were very positive, and she thought the addition of the CORE Olympics contributed to the fun.

Homecoming 1988

Jeff Rose, Jennifer Pearce and Paula Peters

The potpourri of October leaves which covered the grass areas of Wesleyan's campus and decorated the many towering trees around Buckhannon was a perfect background for the 1988 Homecoming Weekend. This year's Homecoming activities were inclusive to all those associated with Wesleyan — students, alumni, faculty, administration, families, and the Buckhannon community. All the traditional events saw a mixture of people joining together to celebrate each others association as a member of the Wesleyan community.

This successful weekend was planned by the Special Activities committee of Community Council. It began on a Friday morning with Convocation speaker Carl Rowan, who spoke on the real value of an education. The same evening, Jennifer Pearce was crowned as our 1988 Homecoming Queen in front of all those who gathered for the Coronation. Later that evening, a Queen's Ball was held in her honor, where she and a gymnasium full of her guests danced to music played by George Gee and His Make Believe Orchestra.

Paula Peters and Kirk Parsons

Early Saturday morning, a long list of entrants participated in a parade. Fraternities, sororities, and campus organizations all created floats and banners based on the theme "The Wonderful World of Disney." Previous to the afternoon football and soccer games, against Westminster and Howard U. respectively, a campus barbecue was held for everyone. At half-time of the football game, the Queen and her court were presented, and the winners of the float and banner competition were awarded their prizes.

The Alumni banquet highlighted the weekend for those returning to Wesleyan at the invitation of Alumni Affairs. Over 600 alumni, a record return, joined together to visit over dinner and listen to the words of fellow alumni Mr. James C. Ayers. Reunion classes were recognized, as were select alumni who were awarded honors for achievement and dedication to Wesleyan.

After all scheduled events on Saturday, there was time for reminiscing between alumni, parties at the fraternity houses and the bar, making new acquaintances, looking to the future, and looking forward to the next time we would meet with one another.

Spring Sing 1989

The 1989 Spring Sing Competition, held on Saturday, April 22nd, was the culmination of a long and exhausting week — Greek Week. Different Greek Week events were held on each day, and at night most Greeks were busy practicing for the Sing.

At the start of the evening the members of the Senior Honor Court and Spring Sing Court were introduced. Then the 1989 Spring Sing Queen Suzy Kopp received her crown and robe from the 1988 Queen, Lauren Hoener. Queen Kopp was then serenaded by each fraternity and sorority as they competed in the final Greek Week event. This year's theme was "You Ought to be in Pictures," and many groups performed songs from Broadway musicals.

At the close of the evening the winners of Spring Sing were announced: 1st place, Alpha Gamma Delta and Phi Sigma Phi, 2nd place, Alpha Xi Delta and Chi Phi, 3rd place, Zeta Tau Alpha and Sigma Theta Epsilon.

Pinning Ceremony

Elizabeth Brisky

For many seniors, graduation was the final step of college, but most nursing majors considered the Pinning Ceremony to be of equal significance. At this year's Pinning Professor Donna Moore presented each senior with a nurse's pin, signifying the completion of the nursing program. Nursing majors Elizabeth Brisky, Amy Jones and Mary Beth Mason sang during the ceremony, and the new nurses repeated the International Florence Nightingale Pledge:

In full knowledge of the obligations I am undertaking, I promise to care for the sick with all the skill and understanding I possess without regard to race, creed, color, politics, or social status, sparing no effort to conserve life, to alleviate suffering, and to promote health.

I will respect at all times the dignity and religious beliefs of the patients under my care, holding in confidence all personal information entrusted to me, and refraining from any action which might endanger life or health.

I will endeavor to keep my professional knowledge and skill at the highest level and to give loyal support and cooperation to all members of the health team.

I will do my utmost to honor the international code of nursing ethics and to uphold the integrity of the professional nurse.

Baccalaureate

Graduation is traditionally an emotionally charged weekend . . . spirits are high, and so are hopes and expectations.

Sharon Percy Rockefeller

Graduation Weekend for the class of 1989 began on Friday evening at the Baccalaureate Service. The service was held in Wesley Chapel, and Bishop George Bashore, resident bishop of the Western PA Conference of the United Methodist Church, was the speaker. His address included the significance of true friendship, our personal duty to love each other, and the importance of our relationship with God. Seniors Alice Faucett, Alan Franks, and Emily Parker also participated in the service.

Graduation activities continued on Saturday with the Parent-Senior Banquet held in Jenkins Dining Hall. The banquet was somewhat personal, for the speakers were known by most of the seniors. Dr. Saunders shared his experiences in the Peace Corps, Senior Class President Mark Kraus reflected on life as a freshman, and Torgeir Gustafson, a native of Norway, spoke of his experiences as an international student.

Finally, after days of packing, partying, and preparation came the final step — Commencement. Commencement was held in Rockefeller Center at 10 a.m., and the room was filled with faculty, students, friends and family. Sharon Percy Rockefeller, former first lady of Wesleyan, was the Commencement speaker. In her speech she emphasized the effect that relationships, success, and failure can have on our individual worth.

President Courtice then awarded each graduate his degree, and awarded an honorary doctorate of law degree to J. Robert Fletcher and Sharon Percy Rockefeller.

An Incredible Year for WVWC Theatre

With four full-length productions, a gigantic musical, and Children's Theatre, the year of 1988-89 was a monumental one for Theatre on the campus of West Virginia Wesleyan. It is not often that so many theatrical events, all produced within the college, take place within the space of one academic year. The Wesleyan community apparently recognized that fact, as there was quite an increase in box office numbers. What there was in the end was a season full of entertained and amazed audiences, and actors and technicians who could feel proud that they were able to experience the thrill of the theatre.

Mass Appeal

WVWC Theatre began its season with this year's Homecoming presentation, an "Evening of Drama." This production was a two-man show called Mass Appeal. Professor of Dramatic Arts Charles I. Presar, portrayed an older, experienced, Catholic priest, Father Tim Farley, who takes it upon himself to train and prepare a young initiate to the priesthood, Mark Dolson, played by junior David Tackett, for entrance into what Father Farley saw as quite a demanding and somewhat theatrical profession. With humorous quips and the delightful interaction between Presar and Tackett, Mass Appeal was an entertaining and comedic look at a serious subject.

A Flea in Her Ear

The Fall Production for 1988 was George Feydeau's classic French bedroom farce, A Flea in Her Ear. This show featured senior Azareen Zavareei as Raymonde-Chandesbise, a jealous wife with no one to be jealous of! Her husband Victor-Emmanuel, played by senior Craig Presar (who had a double role as Poche, the drunken bellhop), was so dutiful, in fact, that her schemes to discover his "hidden adultery" led to a seedy hotel on the underside of Paris, where identities get mistaken, beds revolve and everyone gets caught at the scene of the crime!

Other members of the cast included junior David Tackett as Dr. Finache, senior Tony Basham as Camille, sophomore Bob Kleinedler as Romain, sophomore Laura Brewer as Lucienne, and her husband Carlos played by freshman Roy Hess. "Flea" also saw Professor Charles I. Presar return to the stage in the hilarious role of the dirty old man Herr Schwartz, and junior Brad Amidon, sophomore Diane Runner, freshman Ashley Pellagrino and junior John Russell, as the outrageous hotel staff. All in all, it was an evening of rip-roaring, slapstick French farce at its finest.

Sweeney Todd: The Demon Barber of Fleet Street

Sweeney was smooth,
Sweeney was subtle,
Sweeney would wink and rats would scuttle.

Following January Term, it was time to show the campus what WVWC Theatre could do when they set their collective minds to it. Finally, it was opening night and it was time to unleash the terrifying musical Sweeney Todd: The Demon Barber of Fleet Street.

The show began appropriately with the ominous chords of an organ swell and two men digging a deep grave. When the chorus finally entered, what the audience witnessed was the month-long efforts of at least sixty to seventy people, including directors, technicians and one of the biggest casts the Wesleyan stage had ever seen.

This show featured visiting guest artist Catherine Thieme of Morgantown, WV, as the delightful and jovial Mrs. Lovett. Senior Craig Presar appeared in the title role of the grim and driven Sweeney Todd, and newcomer Eric Waggoner, a freshman, skillfully portrayed the innocent young Tobias.

The role of Johanna was expertly played by not one, but two beautiful sopranos, seniors Kerry Gum and Meg Rowe, giving the audience all the more reason to return for a second showing.

Other principles of the cast included senior Scott McVey as Judge Turpin, juniors Ed Moore and Ashely Cowder as the Beadle and Perelli, and junior Kim Hall in a truly striking and haunting performance as the Beggarwoman.

The blend of music, specracle, and foreboding but enterraining performances by principles and chorus alike made for two weeks worth of quality performances, the likes of which Wesleyan expects from WVWC Theatre.

• Kyle Minor

Attend the tale of Sweeney Todd.
His skin was pale and his eye was odd.
He shaved the faces of gentlemen
Who never thereafter were heard of again.
He trod a path that few have trod . . .
He kept a shop in London Town,
Of fancy clients and good renown.
And what if none of their souls were saved? they went to their maker impeccably shaved
By Sweeney, by Sweeney Todd
The Demon Barber of Fleet Street

A Life

Spring 1989, saw the return of a Wesleyan alum, this time as director of the Spring production, A Life, by Hugh Leonard. 1981 graduate Bruce Gladstone, who served as Artist-In-Residence for WVWC Theatre, directed this two-act drama which told the story of an Irish man and his efforts to wrap up his affairs with his wife, his rival, and the woman he loves, priot to his death. Flashbacks during the course of the play showed the four main characters as they were 20 years previous, portrayed by other actors.

This show featured junior David Tackett as Drumm, the central character, senior Azareen Zavareei as Drumm's long-time love, Mary, junior Ed Moore as her husband and Drumm's rival, Kearns, and senior Cherie Chambers in her finest performance on Wesleyan's stage as Drumm's devoted wife, Dolly. Their younger counterparts were, respectively, sophomore Bob Kleinedler as Des, freshman Carolynne Lacy as Mibs, freshman Roy Hess as Lar, and sophomore Laura Brewer as Dorothy.

In the end, the play was seen to be an emotive, tender look at one man's life and his coming to peace with it.

ETC Period

Although many of Wesleyan's students didn't have a chance to see it, the 1989 Children's Theatre production, ETC period, delighted audiences for six performances in all. The merry cast of this years Children's Theatre sang, yelled, told stories and played games right along with their audiences as grade-schoolers and preschoolers from all over Upshur County delighted in their fun-filled antics. The cast even took their show on the road, as they made a weekend tour of several spots in the state, making stops in such places as Bluefield and Hacker Valley, WV. As always, Children's Theatre was fun for all; a chance for children to see that college students like to play — just like they do!

The Woolgatherer

As the end of the year drew to a close, it was time for potential graduates of a fine arts program to perform in a senior recital, and for Dramatic Arts majors, there was no exception. Hence, we saw Ms. Azareen Marino Zavareei, in her senior dramatic recital, The Woolgatherer by William Matrimione. Azareen and her good friend and fellow thespian, David Tackett, portrayed two very lonely people struggling to become close to one another. Azareen gave a performance much unlike any she had ever given, as the audience saw a lonely, desperate woman; a human being at her most tormented and peaceful states. The intimacy of the Actors' Cellar, where the play was performed, drew the audience directly into the middle of the story. It was a performance truly worth remembering.

Faculty & Administration

Dr. Thomas B. Courtice
President

When Dr. Thomas B. Courtice came to Wesleyan nearly three years ago, his intuition told him that the institution had great potential. President Courtice remarked that during the 1988-89 academic year, he found that his "intuition was right."

Some of President Courtice's specific goals for Wesleyan which were achieved included the increasingly productive posture of the admissions office, and the move away from the institution's prior financial difficulties. The President was pleased with increases in admissions, retention, and the second consecutive surplus year for Wesleyan.

Not ones to be satisfied with these accomplishments, President Courtice and his colleagues spent much of the year looking toward the future and focusing on a direction for Wesleyan, now in its eleventh decade. Dr. Courtice was delighted that, for the first time since he has been in office, Wesleyan was able to hire a substantial number of new faculty members. Six new members were hired and the President was encouraged by the prospect of growth in the ranks of faculty.

"The people are what made this year an overall success."

The year's achievements and the future's goals were sometimes overshadowed by the crises that Wesleyan faced. "My place at Wesleyan seemed to be particularly important to me this year," stated the President. The deaths, accidents, and arrests which impacted members of the Wesleyan community made the President feel the need to get closer to the campus as a whole. This he accomplished by opening his office to student visitors and soliciting opinions from various members of the campus.

President Courtice's greatest satisfaction came when he was able "to see the college come through some of its difficulties as well as it did. That is something you can't administrate and it was very satisfying to see the resilience of the people of Wesleyan." The President believes that the college responded successfully to the challenges it faced and that where it was possible for the institution to show character, it did.

"The people are what made this year an overall success," declared President Courtice. The triumphs of both individuals and the campus community as a whole, enabled Wesleyan to overcome the challenges of this year and will, in Dr. Courtice's mind, enable it to meet the new challenges of the future.

This year, President Thomas B. Courtice was permitted to realize several of the goals he sought when he came to Buckhannon, three years ago: the student body has grown and improved in quality, the financial situation has rallied, and the faculty has expanded and diversified. These attainments are only the beginning, however, as President Courtice's next move is to see "how this year can be a building block for the next ten years.

• Danette Ifert

Dr. Barbara Richardson
Dean of the College

During Academic Dean Barbara Richardson's two years at Wesleyan, she has grafted new branches onto the tree of knowledge, especially concerning non-western and feminist thought.

"By cutting across boundaries and bringing new systems of thought to old questions, we all think more creatively and at the same time build on the learning of previous generations," she said.

She does not, however, want Wesleyan to lose sight of those schools of thought which lay the foundations for the liberal arts tradtion. "On one hand, we talk about the 'best' education and on another, we need to be sensitive to the 'new scholarship' that is emerging through the challenges made by women, minorities, and third world thinkers who are uncomfottable with the images and philosophies characterizing them and their social groups in traditional paradigms."

"By cutting across boundaries. . . we all think more creatively."

She said a second point to consider is how to tie these new philosophies into Wesleyan's curriculum. "The other issue is to tie theory to practice and to be sure that through programs like intemships, study abroad, and specifically tailored learning contracts, we provide the pragmatic opportunities to integrate book learning with the experiences of the whole person in natural settings."

Dean Richardson explored her interest in the topics of innovative curriculum and teaching while she worked for eight years at the National Institute of Education. There she specialized in funding innovative curricular programs at small colleges similar to Wesleyan. Previous to this position, she was assistant professor at Comell, where she also earned her Doctorate Degree. Her Masters' Degree was earned at Columbia, and her Bachelors' Degree in English literature at Harvard. She is a social psychologist and has written two books on research related to women and achievement.

She added that while she was working for the government in Washington D.C., she was a consultant and advocate "on issues relating to older women for the American Association for Retired Persons." She "encouraged older women to become more political in dealing with sensitive emotional issues that were often hard to deal with emotionally, but equally devastating financially." These include widowhood, divorce, fitness, and aging in a youth culture.

The Dean said that as Wesleyan moves in relevant directions, she hopes new responsibilities for both students and staff willl be included. "I am a product of the sixties and cannot help but feel nostalgic for a climate in which students and faculty feel it is incumbent upon themselves to raise basic questions about the mission of the college and the effectiveness of its teaching."

A man who was merely a man and said the sort of things Jesus said would not be a great moral teacher. He would either be a lunatic — on a level with the man who says he is a poached egg — or else he would be the Devil of Hell. You must make your choice. Either this man was, and is, the Son of God: or else a madman or something worse. You can shut Him up for a fool, you can spit at Him and kill Him as a demon, or you can fall at His feet and call Him Lord and God. But let us not come with any patronizing nonsense about His being a great moral teacher.

The Pharos

Every Thursday, despite snow, illness, and upcoming tests, the final touches were completed for Fridays'Pharos.

"Regardless of personal desires, it's your responsibility that you adhere to the deadlines because people are counting on you. People expect the paper to come out every Friday," co-editor Danette Ifert said.

The entire newspaper staff also met Thursday, 5:30 p.m., second semester. At these meetings they discussed the next weeks' issue, story and photo assignments, plus critiqued the previous weeks' issue.

This year, the paper was fortunate enough to have a photographer and photo developer on the layout staff, freshman Craig Forbes. "It was a taxing job, and at times seemed unending. However, seeing the end product seemed to make it worth it," he said. Craig will serve as co-editor with senior Rebecca Sheppard the 1989-90 school year.

Co-editors Jane Granata and Danette Ifert took typed stories and developed photos to Buckhannon's Record Delta newspaper early Tuesday. Wednesday, they picked the materials up, but they were now ready to be placed on paste-up sheets, which are blank sheets divided into columns. Thursday, the layout staff used specific graphic rules to create Friday's edition.

The layout deadline was Thursday, 4:30 p.m., but on long editions the editors occasionally missed dinner altogether. Friday morning, the Delta distributed The Pharos campus-wide to be picked up by students and staff. "The paper is not something you do and then it's over. Once you're done with one thing, it's time to do another," co-editor Jane Granata said.

The Pharos staff also contributed to the Wesleyan community in other ways. For example, freshmen Mike Brown and Bil Lepp helped youngsters write letters to Santa for Christmas on Campus, and staff members raffled tickets for a large Dominoe's pizza to aid the Student Council Jamaican Relief Fund. Nearly fifty dollars was raised by the staff.

Both editors thought the paper improved in ways relating to the school it represents. "We tried to incorporate the views and perspectives of different people and not just those of one group or the staff," Danette said.

Jane added, "this past year we turned our attention more to news about Wesleyan, stories people couldn't necessarily find anywhere else. We concentrated on being a West Virginia Wesleyan College newspaper."

The staff's efforts were rewarded with an overall positive review from the American Scholastic Press Association. "In general, your staff, editor and faculty advisor are to be commended for this publication. I am certain it is a credit to your school and is well received in the commmunity." The 1988-89 Pharos was rated second out of three possible ratings.

Jazz Ensemble

The West Virgina Wesleyan Jazz Ensemble, under the direction of Dr. David Milburn, has had another exciting year.

The highlight of the year was the annual spring concert tour, which this year took the band to the Northeastern United States.

The first concert was at Oak Glen High School in Chester, West Virginia. Since three band members are alumni of this high school, and the director of the high school band, Neil Randolph, is an alum of Wesleyan, this was a special concert for the band and will be especially remembered. Mr. Randolph was given an outstanding alumni award presented by Dr. Milburn and Missy Pillo, Kirk Miller, and Scott Hearon, the alums of Oak Glen High School.

The next day took the band to McGuffy High School in Claysville, Pennsylvania, and the Scottdale Showtime in Scottdale, Pennsylvania. Bright and early the next morning the band headed for Corning, New York, for an evening concert at Corning West High School.

The following morning the band participated in a jazz worship service for Palm Sunday at the Corning United Mthodist Church. After that, it was back on the bus for another long bus ride to the Holiday Inn in Rutland, Vermont.

After breakfast, the band spent the day at Williamstown High School in Williamstown, Vermont, doing clinics for the band students and performing for the general public.

The final day of concerts took the band to Dover High School in Dover, New Hampshire, and St. John's United Methodist church, also in Dover.

Publicity Club

This year was the real beginning of what some have called "the most active and visible group on campus." The Public Relations Club was founded at the beginning of the last school year and had as its major goals; (1) showing the school that there was an interest in Public Relations at Wesleyan, and (2) helping to organize the actual PR major as it exists today. Once that monumental task was done, these gluttons of activity needed something else to keep them busy. And just what may that have been?

Why the EUBIE phenomenon, of course! When approached by the Chapel Office to help publicize the Blood Drive for Professor Arminta Eubank (Baldwin), the PR Club saw its chance to really make it big, and help someone else in the process! The day of the Blood Drive saw a record breaking doubling of the number of donors usually served by a typical Blood Drive; 180 pints of blood in just 5 short hours.

After that, "clients" from all over campus were beating down the PR Club's door with projects and promotions to help with. Some of the PR Club's clients were the Jamaican Relief Fund, Community Council, the Lively Arts Series, the Chapel Office, Christian Life Council, the Black History Month Committee, and the Larry Parsons Chorale, among several others.

The results of their work were obvious to many of their satisfied clients. Besides the dramatic increase at the Blood Drive, there were other improvements. The Awards and Elections committee saw an increase in voter turnout of almost 20% during the first semester elections alone. These are just two examples.

They're not finished yet. Watch for bigger and better projects from the PR Club during the 1989-90 year. The Public Relations Club — they're everywhere you look!

Forensics

Hosting the West Virginia State Tournament and attending the National Forensic Association Tournament in East Orange, New Jersey, were two of the unique opportunities afforded to the WVWC forensics team this year.

On March 11th and 12th, forensicators from across the state gathered at Wesleyan to compete in debate, public speaking, oral interpretation and limited preparation speaking events. It was the first time in several years that Wesleyan had actually hosted a tournament. The team made it a successful event, capturing fourteen finalist positions, two first place rankings, and placing second overall in the team sweepstakes.

The team's outstanding performance at the State Tournament, and at other tournaments throughout the year, enabled six team members to qualify to compete at the National Forensic Association Tournament at Upsala College in East Orange, New Jersey, at the end of April. Kenneth Carlson, Danette Ifert, Donna McBrayer, and Nathan McBrayer accompanied coach Kathleen Long to the tournament for four days of enthusiastic competition with participants from one hundred and twenty other schools in the nation.

In addition to these two unique tournaments, the team traveled to George Mason University in Fairfax, Virginia, and Muskingum College in New Concord, Ohio, during the fall semester. At Marietta College in Marietta, Ohio, the team finished second in the team sweepstakes and won first place rankings in three of the eight events at the tournament. In January, the team traveled to Morehead, Kentucky, to participate in Morehead State University's Eagle Invitational. Members of the campus community were treated to a smorgasbord of forensics talent at the team's annual Evening of Forensics in early April.

This year's team was the largest team Wesleyan has had for several years. Members included; Brad Amidon, Robert Bock, Heather Bomberger, Vicky Burgess, Bill Campbell, Kenneth Carlson, Stephanie Dillon, Elizabeth Fugitt, Kristi Hoover, Danette Ifert, Mitchell Jones, Fred Langsam, Donna McBrayer, Nathan McBrayer, Kyle Minor, Craig Presar, Melissa Radin, Dan Taylor, and Gwen Vieweg. The team was coached by Assistant Professor of Speech Communication Kathleen M. Long.

Soccer

A Perfect Four Years

What looked like a difficult season for the WVWC Soccer Bobcats turned out to be quite the opposite. Coached by George Klebez and assistant coach Mario Garcia, the Bobcats made their fifth consecutive National Championship appearance. This was made possible by the first open-bid system introduced by the organizing committee of the NAIA. "We were fortunate enough to have been selected," commented Klebez.

Historically, the Bobcats have been victorious in 1984 and 1985. In 1986, they bowed out of competition in pool play, and in 1987, the Bobcats were uncharacteristically defeated in the semi-final. However, this past season's record of 14-4-2 reflects the combined effort and talent of the entire club.

It all started one Monday morning in August '88, one week prior to the start of regular season. It was a hot summer day. Joining the upperclassmen were ten new recruits from America, Norway, Jamaica and England.

Pre-season had gone well with the team concentrating mostly on becoming physically conditioned. This they accomplished. They were ready to take on any club that would stand in the way of the championships.

It was quite obvious that our seniors were eager, and would have to work very hard. Leading the pack were forwards Delroy Lewis, Charles Pierre and forward/midfielder Robert Dehring. Also at midfield were George Flooks, and Torgeir Gustafson (co-captain). At defense was the incomparable and versatile Lester Parris (co-captain), who also sometimes played at midfield. The remainder of the squad was comprised of sophomores Andrew Hines and Troy Leatherman, senior Tad Taft, and freshmen Paul Young, Michael Thompson, Stig Sevaldsen, Shawn Davison, Oivind Ellingsen, David Nury, Brett Haight and Petter Tronstad.

This season saw rookie Paul Young emerge. He scored 22 goals for the season, equalling Tom McLean's record set in 1986. He also achieved Honorable Mention status from the NAIA All-American Committee. Adding to the honors list were 3rd team All-Americans Andrew Hines and Torgeir Gustafson. Earlier, Hines was also elected to the 1988 All-Tournament team at Nova University in Fort Lauderdale, the site of the championships. Lester Parris, Torgeir Gustafson and Paul Young were selected to an All-South team by the NSCAA. Lester and Torgeir were also selected to travel to Arizona in the spring to participate in the first NAIA Senior Bowl.

This year the unity and teamwork of this club helped the members overcome some major injuries and defeats. Perserverance prevailed: they kept working at it and gave themselves tremendous self-support. It worked.

Despite losing in the Regional Playoffs to arch-rivals Alderson-Broaddus, the Bobcats were still able to be strategically placed in the final rankings. This was enough to see them through to the championships. For the first time, an at-large team was given the opportunity to advance to the championships. It was a dream come true for the "not-to-be-forgotten" seniors, for this was to be their fourth appearance at the National Tournament. This meant that the seniors had achieved a one hundred percent appearance record, a feat never accomplished before at Wesleyan.

"I believe this has to be one of the best teams ever at Wesleyan," said a senior. "Everybody was giving their best and playing for each other."

With two championships accounted for, the Bobcats are hoping for a third. Maybe 1989 could be the year? We'll just have to wait and see! Good luck!

Football

Dedication Brings a Winning Season

"Dedication" was the key word for the 1988 football Cats. Through hard work, Coach Bill Struble and his grid squad reestablished the old pride of the Cats. West Virginia Football Cats are once again recognized as a major power. The offense proved to be explosive and the defense extremely stubborn.

The Bobcat offense often shocked its opponents by being able to reach pay dirt from any point on the field. The offense was led by the record-setting arm of Bill Creighton, who often hooked up with Mike Baird. The Cats also had a good solid ground attack behind the running of Keith Wilkins and Nick Calcanes. However, the offense would have accomplished little without the strong offensive line.

The name of the game for the defense was intimidation. The defense, being fast, strong, and experienced, yielded few touchdowns to opponents. Through an intense off-season weight and conditioning program, the defense was able to punish its opponents for all four quarters. The defensive team was lead by the hard-hitting John Vaska and Dewayne Jackson, as well as sack specialist Rob Sankey.

With hard work on and off the field, and a strong will to win, Bill Struble and the Bobcats chalked up their second winning season in a row. With an explosive offense and a hard-hitting, stubborn defense, the 1988 Cats crushed many opponents. This team only fell after hard fought battles during their few losses.

Volleyball

Looking to the Future

Wesleyan's Women's Volleyball Team completed its fourth year as a collegiate team with a record of 13-27. Under the supervision of first-year coach Sharon Thomas, the Lady Cats finished with the best season to date. This past season was a learning experience for all involved. There were only five returning players, three of whom were sophomores. The remaining two veterans were a junior and senior, and the team was completed by six freshmen. Most of the season was spent with the players learning one another's strengths and weaknesses.

The women had their ups and downs, but by the end of the year they finished with smiles on their faces. Due to the difficulties Wesleyan has been having with the WVIAC, the women went into tournament play in last place. Day one of the tournament gave the Lady Cats a record of 3-1, beating Glenville, Salem and Sheppard, and losing to Concord. This was good enough to move them into the semifinal round. Unfortunately, the Lady Cats lost to Fairmont State, who went on to capture the conference title. Sophomore hitter Cindy Capp was named All-Conference Team, and the ladies went home with a record of 3-2.

Coach Thomas is looking forward to next season and has been trying to recruit some height for the upcoming year. Since only senior setter, Molly Reichard, will be leaving, the team is hoping to enjoy a winning season.

Tennis

Another Outstanding Season

At the start of the 1988 season, the Lady Cats Tennis Team had set their goals high. They were hoping for another undefeated season, another District 28 victory, and a trip to the NAIA National Tennis Tournament, in Kansas City. They fought for and achieved all of these goals.

The team had five returning players: seniors Dawn Kahley and Becky Minton, and sophomores Missy Bailey, Anne Gatto, and April Phillips. These five veterans, along with freshman Kelly Hyre, comprised the top six line-up. Other supporting team members were Beth Aronson, Ann Bazo, Sarah Lewis and Cindy Shotter.

The Lady Cats battled Divison I schools including Dusquene and Marshall Universities, and still came out on top. The NAIA District 28 tournament, held in Martinsburg, West Virginia, was another success for the Lady Cats. Bailey took the singles' victory of the tournament, and teamed with Phillips to take the doubles' crown.

Dr. James Smith, coach of men's and women's tennis, is very excited with the team's success and could not be more proud. Smith knows they have accomplished a lot, but feels that there is still more to reach for. Part of the team's success is due to the support and teamwork of the players. Although tennis is an individual sport, the contributions of each member are what result in the final victory. John Nee, the assistant coach, is another important factor in the team's success. He helped a great deal in the playing and drilling of the Lady Cats' squad.

Matt with his parents, Pete and Jane Thompson

Nothing can make up for the absence of someone whom we love, and it would be wrong to try to find a substitute, we must simply hold out and see it through. That sounds very hard at first, but at the same time, it is a great consolation, for the gap, as long as it remains unfilled, preserves the bonds between us. It is nonsense to say that God fills the gap, he does not fill it, but on the contrary, he keeps it empty and so helps us to keep alive our former communion with each other, even at the cost of pain.

1989 Murmurmontis

Editors: Elizabeth Boocks, Beth Bargeloh, Heather Willis

Yearbook staff: Art Banks, Elizabeth Briskey, Jim Chiang, Toni Coupe, Sonja Jenness, Bil Lepp, Clark Neighborgall, Annette Smith

Photos used in the volleyball, basketball, baseball, softball, tennis, and cross country pages are courtesy of Jim Warner.

The theme of this book, "our few words," was taken from an incredible poem titled "An Old Man on the River Bank." The poem was written by the greek poet George Seferis, and it was translated by Edmund Keeley and Philip Sherrard.

Volume 79 of the Murmurmontis was printed by Taylor Publishing Company in Dallas, Texas.

Heartfelt appreciation is extended to the staff of the switchboard, for their words of support and many giggles; to Campus Security, for checking on me in the yearbook room in the middle of the night and walking me to my car as a form of Best Friends; for finding negatives and cheerfully printing loads of pictures, to Darryl Cook, Brian Hunter, Kyle Mason, my p-term class, my girls on the 3rd and 4th floor of Aggie, the coaches, and all those in the Housing, Sports Information, Student Life and Student Services offices; for helping with the chore of proof identifications, to Vera Cobbinston; for being optimistic and supportive, to Mark Graham, Debbie Haynes, Kim Hill, Donald Moore, Clark Neighborgall, Natalie Wareham, and my parents; for doing my typing and copying photos, to Toni Allman, Maureen McCauley, and Cyndi Pierce-Keating; for editing and proofreading, to Jim Warner; for taking the time out of his incredibly busy schedule to print all those photos, to our Taylor Representative, Ron Richardson, and our Account Executive, Dina Avery; for patiently answering all of my questions, and to Editor Trainee, Beth Jacobus, Cathy Knott, Tom O'Halloran, and Laura Pruett, for stopping by the yearbook office to offer words of encouragement.

I would also like to express my eternal gratitude to Dana Arnold, Brenda Burroughs, Karen Cayce, Tammi Dixon, Craig Eaves, Mike Hicks, Bob Kleindler, Jennifer Irvine, Mary Marshall, Leigh Morrison, Donald Moore, Lauren Morgan, Kelly Morrow, Brian Parker, Tammie Pierce, Rebecca Sheppard, Patrick Snow, Virginia Thomas, Sandi Varley, Tracy Walker, and Nicole Wertz, for generously letting us use their photos in all the students and faculty members who took the time to submit their favorite quotes, and to the students at West Virginia Wesleyan College, for giving the yearbook "a meaning and a goal." I'm thankful.

So that's all now, if you please, but next, if my typewriter doesn't go in swimming and get its hair ribbon all wet, so it's as crinkly as a corkscrew, I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggily and the doll's house.
